

Films As Critiques of Novels: Transformational Criticism

This text shows how films are useful as literary criticism. From an examination of what will and will not translate into film from print, one learns much about a novel's structure and methodology, its themes, narratology, and other aspects of fiction. Novels/films covered include The French Lieutenant's Woman, The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie, The Sterile Cuckoo, Catch-22, Bang the Drum Slowly, A Room With a View, Ordinary People, more.
