

War on Terrorism or American Strategy for Global Domination: Islamic Perspective on the Afghan-Iraq War

In his thought-provoking new book, War on Terrorism or American Strategy for Global Dominance, Shah Manzoor Alam, Ph.D. notes that although distinguished scholars have produced works on the Afghanistan-Iraq wars, none to his knowledge have analyzed the impact of this catastrophic war on Islam and on the Muslim world. Dr. Alam feels that his book provides the missing Islamic perspective. The author critically examines the factors that motivated the United States to initiate action in the first place. The defeat of the Taliban, he says, was welcomed by Afghans but the United States and NATO forces missed an opportunity to win their hearts and minds when they shifted their focus from economic reconstruction in Afghanistan to military action. Dr. Alam goes on to critique the Bush Administration's Surge Strategy, and what the author calls its disdain for diplomacy. He is particularly critical of the brutal treatment of prisoners of war, called enemy combatants, in the detention centers of Guantanamo Bay, Abu Ghraib, and Bagram which, according to Dr. Alam, violates international conventions and human values that America stands for. On balance, the author also unequivocally condemns Muslim Jihadists who kill innocent people. Calling for flexibility and a change in course by the new American president because the people of the world are crying out for peace, Dr. Alam's comprehensive, informative, and well-researched presentation is a must read for a new era of peace.
