

Spinal concussion (The Classics of neurology and neurosurgery library)

The varied inhabitants of Brainard, Michigan, examine their lives and losses in very distinct, matter-of-fact voices. A heart attack victim crashes into his brother-in-laws funeral parlor in the title story; the deaf-mute of Conversation begins his tale with the simple sentence, I dont think Ive really had a conversation with anyone since my father died. Dan Gerbers characters are capable of extraordinary compassion and everyday cruelty, and reveal themselves in an unnerving series of layers.
