The Messianic Confrontation

THE MESSIANIC CONFRONTATION is based on the perception that the Lord showed the Prophet Daniel (Dan. 12:9) and the Apostle John (Rev. 10:4) a vision and then commanded to seal what they heard until the Last Days (Dan. 12:9). A study of the two scriptures reveals that both visions had the same background. This signifies that the two servants sealed the same knowledge. The divine command of the sealing renders the traditional scenarios about the sealing to be spurious, premature interpretations of the Scriptures.

Apparently independent from the Scriptures, the Lord showed the Prophet Isaiah in a vision that during the Last Days, the Law of God would be established (Isaiah 2:1-4.) A study of the knowledge that was sealed reveals that Isaiah implied the sealing of the Law of God. The implied sealing was to ensure that the people would not prematurely discover the profound nature of the knowledge that was sealed. When the people would study the sealed Law, they would discern the link to the Isaiah vision. The sealed Law is not a law of commandments, but a law of creation. The Law primarily reveals a creation model, which in a definitive setting, establishes two fundamental profound precepts: one, God exists without having been created; two, Jesus Christ is the only way to God. Furthermore, the Law reveals the Scenario for the transition to Paradise of the people who profess that Jesus Christ is the Messiah. The Law has the potential to reveal the truth about Christ. The Law also reveals the destiny of the people who do not make the transition.
