

Pandemic: How to Survive a Pandemic, Prepare For An Ebola Breakout, And Protect Your Family and Friends During a Pandemic

The world should prepare for a major event. It is highly likely and predictable that a pandemic is coming. Unlike the global pandemic of 1918, pathogens in today's world can travel extremely quickly. When the 1918 pandemic struck, it could take months for pathogens and their carriers to travel the globe and spread the disease. In today's world, cross globe travel can be done in a day making the time frame for which a pathogen infects its victims much shorter and at the same time, makes the impact much larger, more far reaching and exponentially more devastating. This book will cover: How to create a sick room 10 ways you can prepare for a Pandemic List of foods you should stockpile 72 hour bug out bag How to decide to stay or evacuate and much much more!
