It includes some supplements: things someone will tell a graduate student son. Do not hate the player or the game. Hate (having the talent, and) not knowing the rules. Manners are things you know to do. Etiquette is the set of rules that go with them. Manners to Etiquette Outclass the Competition Manners must be married to etiquette for there to be a good result; what you approve of must be married with the set of rules for the court you are in or for the court at the level to which you wish to ascend.
