Introductory comments and performances included in this series are Golden Age of Radio performers Parley Baer, Harry Bartell, Elliott Reid and Peggy Webber. Death in the North Sea (Originally broadcast June 16, 1947) Has another innocent man been accused of murder? The murder of a wealthy diamond merchant along with the disappearance of a fortune in uncut stones points directly to his partner, Charles Rossiter. However, Holmes feels that something is not right. A small scratch on the cabin wall and a missing water bottle lead Holmes to an entirely different conclusion. Can he prevent a blameless man from hanging? The Adventure of the Speckled Band (Originally broadcast June 23, 1947) What does an old fireplace poker have to do with one of the most terrifying Sherlock Holmes cases? Holmes and Watson are approached by a lovely young lady, in mourning for her sister, who is terrified for her own life. Holmes and Watson must untangle the mysterious activities at Stoke Moran before more innocent people die.
