Why do we exhaust ourselves, day after day, using ideas to sell our books that simply don't work? What if I told you, that you could jump on Amazon KDP, as a new or seasoned author, with or without any sort of author platform, and immediately begin to sell your books? Could it really be that easy? What exactly determines the fate of your book? Is it true that we need a strong platform of followers to see success? Do we really need to spend 80% of our time promoting, and only 20% writing? Is this exhausting work really necessary to see just a few sales? What if I told you, that I know for a fact—from personal experience—that none of this is necessary? I am giving away my secrets. I am going to tell you how I went from selling only twelve books per week, to 200+ books per week. And these sales are not only consistent, but improving every month. I did this with absolutely zero promotion. There is so much hype on the KDP Select free promo days, yet I have literally given away thousands of my books, with zero profit in return. The market is growing at a vicious rate, competition is fierce, and we need to become more creative and resourceful than ever. Yet one simple fact remains consistent, and this will never change. I am referring to human psychology. I have studied psychology for ten years, through life experience, as well as rigorous in-class instruction. I am going to go over the five different psychological influences that will determine whether or not your book will succeed. I implemented these five influencers in my last book; My Secret List of Sites that Pay, and I have made more sales than I could have ever imagined. The book is a 32 page guide, and as stated, I made these sales with zero promotion. Make money online. Do you want to be getting paid to work from home?
