

Workshop For Greeting Cards - This is the BUSINESS you were looking for

Every morning, at 10 a.m., Lacey Jones sits at her work desk and prepares for work. She is awaited by a few dozen sheets of cardboard in different colors, a cutter, a ruler, a tube of glue, Christmas tree templates, bells, Easter bunnies, flowers, etc. This is all the equipment she needs to create absolutely out-of-the-ordinary products: cut out greeting cards. The work is strictly manual. The only machine she uses is the cutter. Lacey doesn't rush things - she carefully wields the cutter and makes sure that each cut is as accurate as possible. If this is also your passion, you can make your original greeting cards. This e-book will show you how to produce greeting cards that look as if they had been produced by a large greeting card company. Actually, these amazing greeting cards can come from an ordinary workshop arranged on a few square feet, inside a small apartment.
